

ENSEMBLE DRE

GUITAR - VIOLIN - DOUBLE BASS - PERCUSSION

Arranging by means of improvisation? That's exactly what this foursome stands for.

Creating the right atmosphere and humor are the cornerstones of this unique concept in which the classical style mixes with jazz, Latin and the French Chanson.

Biography

We are DRE, an ensemble that's passionate about classical music with a jazzy or latin touch. Our ensemble consists of classical guitar (Ine Clerckx, violin (Reinout Pauwels), double bass (Daniele Giampaolo) and percussion (Lucas Heytens).

The abbreviation 'DRE' came from Dyens Roland Ensemble, after the composer whose works determined our very first programme. His music, with elements of jazz music, Brazilian rhythms and a touch of the French Chanson inspired us to form our ensemble and is still a major part of our repertoire. Apart from his music, we have also performed works by Argentinian composers Miguel Angel Cherubito, Maria Luisa Anido and Ariel Ramirez. Our programme was built completely on arrangements written by our percussion player, Lucas Heytens, as the works were originally meant to be played by guitar solo.

We are a young ensemble and we are convinced that we can send a message with our varied, innovative programme.

" Roland "

Our program "Roland" - entirely dedicated to French composer/guitarist Roland Dyens - is actually a real cocktail of different styles. These works with a classical core and structure are spiked with influences from jazz music, Latin-American music and the French chanson, but find their origin in improvisation. As an additional asset, you can find subtle and less subtle jokes in each and every one of these pieces, whether it's in the title or in the course of certain musical passages.

The fact that we started arranging these pieces through improvisation only adds to the strengths of this program. It enhances the free character of these pieces even more.
